

Make a model bunker

Fortify your squad's position at the crash site and protect your supplies

Suitable for Scouts

Mission: Stranded!

On a routine patrol, your squad of Space Marines has crash-landed on a planet. A dense jungle filled with swamps surrounds what little is left of their craft. Help may not arrive for some time, and although the planet scanned as uninhabited, other dangers may await in the humid depths of the wild.

Each Space Marine has collected some useful materials from the crash and the surrounding area. Using only these materials, work together to create a bunker to protect your supplies and communication beacon.

In your design, think about:

- How the squad will keep a lookout for danger
- How they can defend it
- How they will keep their supplies safe

Before you start

Download the activity sheet and templates from fundraising.scouts.org.uk/Warhammer

Top tip: Use the jungle logs as posts to create a frame for the bunker.

You will need

- Templates printed onto card
- Scissors
- Tape
- Cardboard for the base

Instructions

- 1 Split your group into different teams. Give each team a base to construct their bunker on.
- 2 Give out one template per participating young person.

3 Ask each young person to cut out their supplies and make their model following the instructions on the sheet.

4 Read the mission to your Scouts and support them to discuss ideas for their bunker.

5 Ask your Scouts to work together and create a bunker.

6 When they have finished, get each group to present their finished bunker and discuss the benefits of each one.

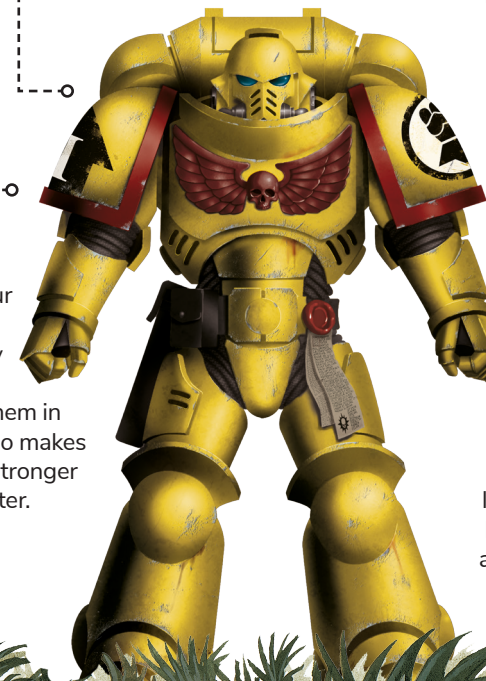

Space Marines - did you know?

Space Marines are humans, genetically enhanced to give them super-strength.

There are different armies of Space Marines, known as Chapters, and each has its own colours and symbols.

They wear power armour which is full of technology that not only protects them in space but also makes them even stronger and faster.

This Space Marine belongs to the Imperial Fists, shown by his yellow armour and fist symbol on his shoulder pad.

Time needed 40 minutes

Badge

Warhammer partners the Scout Model Maker Activity Badge

Partner

Outcomes

Young people will discover more about Space Marines from Warhammer 40,000. Promoting teamwork, the activity will help them to make their own model bunker and inspire creative story-telling.

Taking it further

Repurpose materials such as cardboard boxes and plastic tubs to create a solid shelter. This can then be used as scenery in a game of Warhammer 40,000.

More information

Games Workshop are excited to introduce the creative worlds of Warhammer to the Scouts. The partnership will help young people to discover characters and stories while creatively learning skills in engineering, mathematics, literacy and art. To do this, Warhammer has created a free activity resource set available to all Scout leaders who register with the dedicated support programme, the Warhammer Alliance. For more information and to register go to: warhammer-alliance.com.

Mission: Stranded! Supplies sheet

1

Make your own Imperial Fists Space Marine

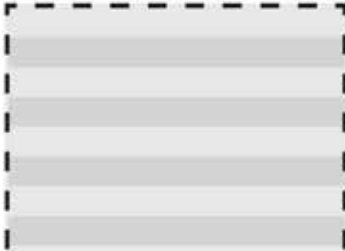

1. Cut out the model template following the cut-out lines
2. Fold the template 3 times on the dotted lines
3. Apply glue to the indicated tab
4. Stick the tabs together forming a triangle

2

Make your own logs

1. Cut out the 2 templates
2. Roll them up to make a paper straw
3. Use tape to stick the edge down

Communication beacon

Supplies

